HONGRONG, MONDAY, MARCH 18, 1895.

WHEN we referred a few days ago to the atorni cloud that threatens to burst at any moment and to overwhelm the present administration at Peking, and perhaps to sweep away all traces of the reign of the Manchus in China, we indicated briefly the scheme that had found favour amongst the leaders in the Reform Party. Whether this scheme will ever become the groundwork of a plan for the regeneration of the Chinese Empire, it would be unsafe to predict. Having regard, however, to the urgent necessity for reform in China politically and the equally clament necessities of the people socially and morally, all true friends of enlightenment and civilisation must welcome the hopeful glimmering of a desire for a rational, constitutional and honest form of Government in China-for a Government which will rule the people on sound principles with a view to the development of individual and national wealth and well-being internally, and to conduct the external affairs of the Empire on the lines

The publication of this usus commented The present Provinces are considered to be altogether too large for efficient supervision. It is proposed to reconstruct the Provinces, making divisions a fifth of the size of existing Provinces. For each Division there would be a Governor and a Lieutenant-Governor, these officials and their executive officers to hold their appointments from the Central Government, which would, in return, he responsible for the payment of their salaries. Each Province would also have a Treasurer; two Judges to deal with all important legal cases, civil and criminal; ten Magistrates to deal with trivial cases and to assist the Governor in the administration of the affairs of their partioular Districts; a Local Board of Works under a competent Surveyor or Enginesi; a Commissioner of Police; and a Military Commander. The Provincial Governors might also, in course of time, be furnished with Executive Councils to assist and advise them.

It is especially interesting to turn to the proposed judicial reforms. Here, as every Occidental knows, China provides ample scope for reforming zeal. The greatest blot upon the Chinese statutebook is the teleration of the inhuman practice of torture of witnesses and of suspected persons. It is one of the most important points in the ratification of Foreign treaties with Japan that she modern diplomacy and uprightness, should reform her Judicature, and if casting off all that is bad and objection- such reform is needed in Japan to able in the effete civilisation that has justify the Foreign Powers in admitencrusted her for centuries and prevent- ting her on a footing of equality, how ed her from marching in line with the much more necessary is it that China, countries of the West. If the Chinese only a healthy spirit of reform awakening and a sincere desire to establish a government that will promote reform instead of keeping the people in abject poverty and ignorance, there is little doubt that the Powers will step in and recognise the new government and will lend every assistance possible.
